

It's time to pit your art and antiques brains against the ATG Prize Summer Word Search.

Winner will receive a bottle of Fortnum & Mason prosecco.

How to play

- Find the names of 45 artists, sculptors and ceramicists hidden in the grid. We have shown one to get you started.
- We're not providing the list of names to find but we will say that most of them are very well-known and almost all of them have appeared at some point in the pages of ATG, including a few very recently.
- Some letters in the grid are used in more than one of the names.
- Some names may include the letters A, T or G but when you have found all 45 names, you will see that the only letters left unused in the grid will be some of the As, Ts and Gs.
- Therefore, you now know that any letter that is not an A, T or G will definitely be part of at least one name. And while some of the As, Ts or Gs will be part of some names (for example, GOYA), some will not be part of the solution and will be left unused.

How to win

- Once you have found them all, send a photo of your solution (or a typed-out list of the 45 names) to editorial@antiquetradebuzz.com to be entered into our free prize draw for a bottle of Fortnum & Mason prosecco.
- You can also send your answers by post to:

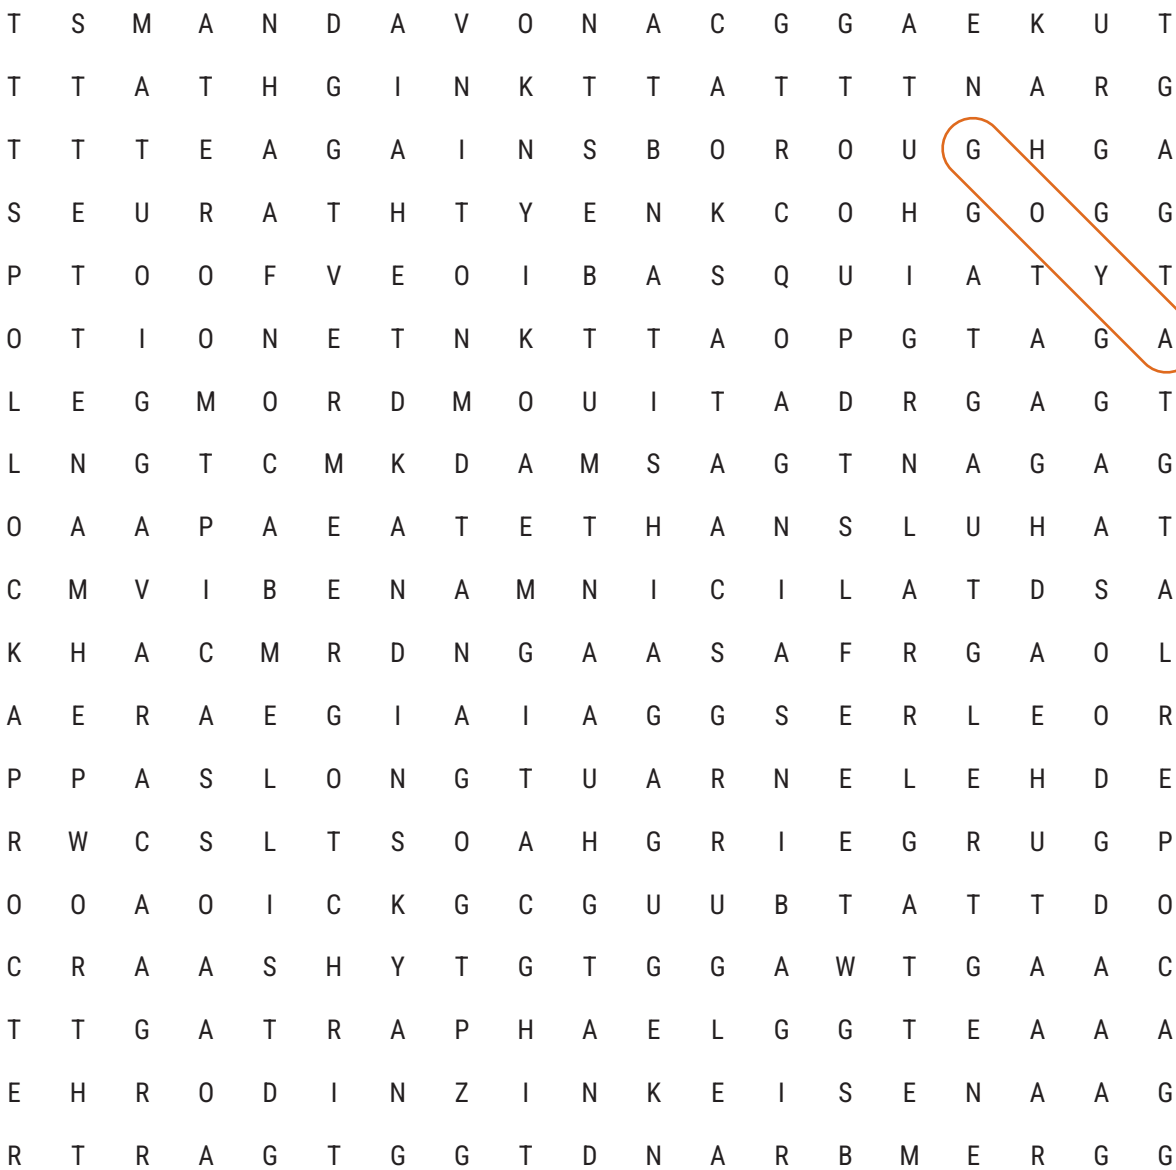

Tom Derbyshire
Antiques Trade
Gazette
6th floor
Harlequin Building
65 Southwark Street
London SE1 0HR

- Answers must be received by Tuesday August 19 to be included in the free prize draw.
- Our usual terms and conditions apply. (Prize only available to ATG subscribers)

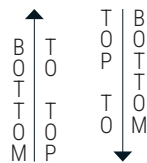

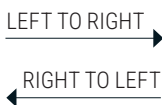

Regular readers will recall our long-serving crossword compiler Michael Curl passed away last year (ATG no.2652). Responses to our most recent reader survey show that some subscribers miss the crossword and would like some form of prize competition in the double issue. We've decided to give this new format a try-out. Let us know via our usual email address if you enjoyed it.

The grid was generated via wordsearchlabs.com.
